

THE MONTCLAIR BIRD CLUB

YOUR WEEKLY BIRD 5

October 8, 2023

Pictures by Patience Moore and Dionne Ford

This gorgeous red-tailed hawk came down to a low dead branch and stayed forever. The photo was taken with a cell phone.

Fall is when red-tailed hawks migrate over New Jersey on their way south. However, many of the red-tailed hawks we see at this season are not flying over at high altitude, but are resident birds that remain here throughout the year.

Both pictures were taken in Brookdale Park located in new Jersey, on the Montclair and Bloomfield border.
