

THE MONTCLAIR BIRD CLUB

QUIZ 159

October 23, 2022

What bird did Socrates mention in his final words?

“Crito, we ought to offer a _____ to Asclepius. See to it, and don’t forget.”

Asclepius is a hero and god of medicine in ancient Greek religion and mythology. After his death, people started an Asclepius cult. As a god it was believed that, even dead, he had the power to help them get cured and release them from pain.

Rod of Asclepius

Link to ponder: Bird misspellings.

THE ANSWER IS ON THE NEXT PAGE

“Crito, we ought to offer a cock to Asclepius. See to it, and don’t forget.”

Ornithological Quiz Master: Rick Wright
Assistant & Photographer: Sandy Sorkin

Southwest Wings

