

THE MONTCLAIR BIRD CLUB

QUIZ 60

November 4, 2020

They look remarkably similar. Can you identify them?

Link to ponder:

Birds of the world. The index to the great Peters Check-list.

THE ANSWER IS ON THE NEXT PAGE

The northern mockingbird is one of our commonest and most familiar songbirds. While we think of it as "the" mockingbird, Mimus polyglottos is in fact just one of fourteen species in the genus, all of the others resident in Central and South America. Only the Bahama mockingbird sometimes strays from its Caribbean home to encounter northern mockingbirds in Florida. The tropical mockingbird in our quiz ranges from the Yucatan to the southern coast of Brazil.

Northern Mockingbird

Tropical Mockingbird

MBC Ornithological Quiz Master: Rick Wright
MBC Assistant & Photographer: Sandy Sorkin

Southwest Wings

